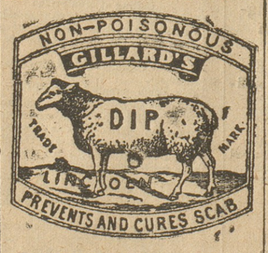
GILLARD'S SHEEP DIP



This Dip is most carefully prepared by the most improved methods and can be used with
COLD WATER
Supplied to the Prince of Wales's Farm at SANDRINGHAM
TESTIMONIALS.
From Mr. JOHN J. MAHON, Capilla del Señor, June 29, 1881.—The dip which you sent me I used according to directions, and I can assure you that it gave the desired result. During four years of practical experience of curing scab in sheep, I have seen many specifics used, and I consider Gilliard's the only one that gives complete satisfaction. It improves the quality and promotes the growth of the wool. For efficiency, economy and facility of application, I prefer it to any dip I have used.
From Mr. JAMES M. THOMAS, Estancia Santa Ines, Moote, June 29, 1881.—Having given a good trial to Gilliard's Dip, I have much pleasure in bearing my testimony to its valuable quality as a Sheep Dip. It destroys all insect life with which sheep are infected, mixes readily in cold water, does not injure the hands, and softens all hard parts. I shall strongly recommend it whenever an opportunity offers. As regards the cheapness, it should command a good sale.
From Mr. Wm. Petty, Estancia Caro, Colonia, Sept. 20, 1881—
"I feel great pleasure in informing you that the sheep dip supplied by you to me under the name of Gillard's Sheep Dip has had surprising results on my English long-woolled rams; it has kept them entirely free from scab after only twice using it, although those rams have been constantly running in a flock of scabby sheep. I intend for the first time to give it a trial with the whole of my English breed of sheep as soon as I have them shorn, as I feel satisfied I shall with that did keep scab out of the flock.'
From Messrs. Patrick Mahon, junr., Cirisco Morales, and James Murray, Capilla del Señor, Sept. 18, 1881—
"It gives us great pleasure to inform you that, after giving a good trial to Gillard's non-poisonous sheep dip, we can pronounce it to be the best specific we have used as yet, and we are fully determined for the future to use no other remedy."

ARGENTINE MINING

There are so many sources of enormous wealth in this favoured land that, even were its population double what it is, many of them would remain unworked for years to come. One of the greatest of all our resources in latent wealth will be one day undibutably found to be our mines. All who have ever been in the far Interior have been able to see even without any technical knowledge on the subject, that the Upper Provinces are a mass of mineral wealth, and most experts hold the opirion that the teeming metallic riches found on the other side of the Andes will eventually be far surpassed on this. The wizard, Capital, however, has hitherto hesitated to use his magic power on behalf of Argentine mines, although the fame of Famatina has spread to Europe and North America. However, with the railways which are now being extended to the Northern confines of the republic, we are on the eve of a great change, and it is not only on the cards, but for those few who know something of the Upper Provinces, it is a matter of certainty that our mineral wealth will yet make as much noise in the world as that of California Peru, or the Australian gold-diggings.

Some early birds, convinced of this, are already picking up the worm in Cordoba, San Luis and other provinces, and there is far more mining going on now in the Interior than the general public are at all aware of; and those individuals and joint stock companies who have secured 'good things' keep there own secrets so well that some few capitalists in London and Paris know far more of Argentine mines and prospects than we do here.

It would be of immense benefit to the nation if some steps were taken to make this country's mining as well as agricultural prospects better known abroad by the time the railway extensions are finished. The following extract from Mr Hume's pamphlet on Santa Fe shows that he has not been unmindful of the Republic's mineral resources, when laying its other advantages before the British public:—

"Practically speaking, there is neither iron nor coal in the Argentine Republic, and the consequence is, that only those manufactures pay where the raw materials are found amongst the products of the country.

It is, however, the opinion of many scientific men in the Argentine Republic, and of others who have been there and studied the subject, that both coal and iron exist in large quantities in the Upper Provinces, although at considerable depth. Coal of an inferior quality has been found in the Province of Mendoza almost at the surface of the earth, and at Punta Arenas, to the south of Patagonia, very fair coal is being taken out every day, and being supplied to nearly all the steamers passing the Straits of Magellan.

There is no doubt that the coal deposits of Mendoza will be worked with practical results at some future date, but not until the country becomes more thickly populated, and the means of transport are improved.

Mining is carried on to a consi. derable extent, gold, silver, and copper being the staples.

At Chilecito, Famatina, Cruz del Eje, San Juan and Mendoza, there are large mining establishments, and they are said to do a very good business, but have great difficulties to contend with, on account of the distances to be overcome, and the consequent high freights, not only of the minerals, but also of the articles of every-day consumption. This industry has had several very fair trials during the last twenty or thirty years, but from want of good management in some instances, from want of the necessary capital in others, the total want of railways at that time and the enormous distances to be travelled by mules, it did not give the mines an opportunity of showing what they were really worth, and the consequences were fatal.

Mr Edwin H Egerton, the British Secretary of Legation in Buenos Aires, says in his Report to the British Government in April, 1881:—

"That the cost of the carriage from Famatina to England nearly equals that of the extraction and rough smelting of the ore. Still, even now, with a total want of proper means of communication, a good profit should be made from the sale of the metal in Europe. What would it not be, should the railway system be extended to the mineral regions of Rioja and Catamarca?"

He again goes on to say:

"There are thus eight provinces of this Republic known to be singularly rich in minerals. Of the extent of these mineral riches, or of the places best suited for remunerative mining, without exact survey and scientific exploration, but a vague idea can now be formed. The places, however, that are now known will no doubt be well worthy the attention of European capitalists, when the Government having proved its ability to maintain tranquility, shall have promoted easy means of communication; for even now, in their absence, the distant mines of Rioja can be worked with profit.

The Cordoba and Tucuman Rail way, however, is already an outlet for some of the mines, and its extension from Tucuman to Jujuy will be a still further help. There then only remains the San Luis, San Juan, and Mendoza extension to Chili, which, when it is finished, will complete the trunk line of railway to Rosario, over the Central Argentine, thus enabling the formerly shut-in provinces of the interior to bring their products to market at reasonable rates, instead of the ruinous charges for bullock or mule carts, as in days gone by."

A short telegram from our chief 'en voyage' will be found in another column. Things are far more piscatorial at Bahia Blanca than supposed: Only two policemen in the place to fight the Indians in case they should return. In spite of this depressing state of things, the town was illuminated in honour of the party on board the Villarino, and they received a hearty welcome.

The idea of 'feeding' President Roca, General Osborn and Dr Irigoyen for settling the Chilian Question has been abandoned in favour of an object of art for each, and the presentation will take place on New Year's Day, in President Roca's house. The King of Italy has sent a decoration to President Roca, as a mark of His Majesty's appreciation of the interest taken in the recent Italian Exhibition here by H.E.

The heat was so terrific yesterday that everybody was in a melting mood and could not get up a roar of laughter even at the truly tremendous 'canard' published by the Rio Grande papers to the effect that Colonel Latorre had captured Montevideo by assault with awful slaughter, garrison mutinied, and Santos taken to his heels and the Cerro fortress as a place of refuge. We appreciate a public that can swallow and enjoy something mild in the 'duck' line now and then, but the worthy Rio Grandenses must have a prodigious appetite for the food, if they swallowed this Latorre story.

We received a long letter from 'Our Own' in Mendoza yesterday, but hold it over for our next issue. 'Falta de espacio' is, unfortunately, as frequent with us as 'falta de caballos' is with the troops on the frontier. However 'nous allons changer tout cela,' and we hope the War Office will see fit to do ditto,

The news from the West Coast is so mixed that it conquers us, Caceres proclamed Gefe Supremo of Peru, (by his own friends, no doubt.) Several towns have acknowledged the Provisional Government (which? there are apparently three, Calderon's, Pierola's and Caceres') General Montero declares for 'Constitutional order,' and that he is equally ready to make peace, or foremost fighting fall. In fact the imbroglio thickens every day, and the only hope of a way out of the mess is in Nature and the American Minister Mr. Hurlbut. The telegrams say that poor General Kilpatrick's interment was the most solemn thing of the kind ever seen there: the cortege was ten squares in length.

Our Special Correspondent in Cordoba, who was of the Minister of the Interior's party on H.E.'s trip along the Andine Railway, wired us yesterday as follows: Just returned to Rio Cuarto. The corned-beef enquiry on board the Cabo de Hornos has not ended, as we supposed, in a Scotch verdict of 'not proven.' On the contrary, the beans, biscuits and Bordeaux were found to be 'not the thing,' and several other articles only 'mixed middling.' The funniest part of the whole affair is that the captain of the ship got 'blown up' for not having consumed all the stuff that gave rise to the bobbery! Perhaps he and his crew have a not unnatural preference for high tea as compared with 'high' beef.

Governor Roach wont start today as he intended. Affairs of State will keep him in town till Friday next. 'El Viernes, no te cases ni te embarques.'

There will be grand doings this morning before breaktast in Plaza Once, when the National flag will be hoisted on the tower of the Exhibition building. Said tower is still in a very skeleton-like condition. We have not heard if there is to be anything in the knife and fork line, but suppose so. People are generally very hungry about 9 a.m.

The tremendous rise in the price of bricks shows what the federalization of this city has already done for it. New houses are springing up in all quarters. The advance in bricks is so sharp that the National Government has had to add 18,000 pats to the estimates for the new Women's Hospital, as otherwise the contractor declared that he would lose that amount on the job.

Palermo Park is to be divided into two sections—one for zoology and the other for botany. We hail this news with joy, as a botanical garden is much needed here to prove to the multitude that there are thousands of valuable plants in other countries which would grow here to perfection. Deputy Juan B Martinez's plain speaking in the Chambers the other day, in reference to the way in which the House was dealing with the S. We hope this is not going to prove another Woodgate Dock business.

The police pounced, on Friday evening, on the rest of the goods lately stolen from the Custom-house. They were concealed in a house in Calle Cochabamba, and the mystery is how they were transported there unknown to the police. Four of the men were two days and a night without food while carrying on the robbery,

FLAX.

(Concluded.)

STEEPING OR RETTING.

Flax is the filamentous portion of the stock of the plant from which it is necessary to separate the woody part, termed the boon. But in order to do this the gum or resinous sap which binds the parts together must be dissolved, and the method of doing so greatly influences the value of the fibre. The steeping of flax is carried on in some parts by exposure on the grass to dews and rain, which is called dew-retting. Rating or rotting, in other places by immersion in 'running streams' (not 'lagunas'.) It is also steeped in pools (lagunas) and is called water retting. The quality of the water must be taken into consideration. It must be free from iron or other metallic particles or the fibre will be discoloured. It must not be hard or spring-water, but if possible it must be water that has flowed some distance and been exposed to the action of the air. It is improved by a gentle current of water flowing over it in order to carry off the scum that is formed. In the steep pool the sheaves of flax are packed loosely resting on their butt ends. It must be covered from the light by sods, with the grassy side underneath, or by straw kept down by stones or logs of wood, &c. After a time fermentation, accompanied by an unpleasant odour, ensues. The water from these stagnant pools is said to be poisonous, and most decidedly it poisons all fish that may be in said pools. If steeped in running water it is not injurious. The steeping must be continued until the gum resin is completely loosened and separated; but it must be stopped before the putrefactive fermentation takes place, and in order to do this a careful examination is necessary. One of the signs of the approach of this result is the sinking of the flax in the water, which may take place according to the weather, say from six to twenty days' steeping. The best test is the breaking off of a few stalks of average fineness and ascertaining whether the fibre can be easily pulled off without breaking from the internal woody part or boon. If so, the flax is sufficiently watered, and a longer time in the water would make it weak and cottony.

The removal from the steeping pools requires care, by the cautious removal of the grass sods or straw. The sheaves should be taken out and set up on their butt-ends, in order to drain for 24 hours, after which they are spread out on a pasture and left to be washed by showers and softened by the action of the air. They should be evenly spread in rows, so that by means of a lath they may be turned over easily, so that each side may be exposed alike.

A few days or a week is occupied in grassing the flax, which if not equally exposed the quality and colour become different. After the grassing the flax is lifted, tied up in sheaves and packed under cover, or stacked and thatched in the rick-yard. Here it may be kept for years, the quality rather improving during three or four seasons after steeping.

By the old method of water-retting and dew-retting, the plant is brought to a certain stage of decay which causes a loosening or separation of the fibres. By either process from 10 days to three or six weeks is required before the flax is ready for separation from the boon, and in the meantime the waters and the atmosphere of the district are rendered offensive and the flax itself becomes injured by over-retting. In 1847 a new process of retting by circular vats and steam pipes was introduced by Mr. Schenck, of New York. The process would be too lengthy for your columns, and this letter has already extended itself sufficiently, but to be of any use to intending growers here cannot be reduced.

A Mr. Bower, of Leeds, has also patented other improvements in retting flax: he gives his process and receipt for steeping, &c., the whole operation being completed in about 30 hours.

To prepare the flax for the market, nothing now remains but to separate it from the wood by breaking and scutching.

The flax is bruised in a machine called a brake, which is provided with two rows of iron grooves, so that each convex part of the upper row falls into the concave part of the under row, and thus bruises the wood without cutting or injuring the fibre. After this the woody part will separate easily. Scutching is performed by a broad, flat blade of wood held in the hand, and portions passed through a slot in the stand, and being beaten with the scratch blade strikes the woody matter away. Being done by machinery, the flax is passed through rolling or crushing mills, which crack the boon; then passed to rotating knives and other machines invented by Mr. M'Adam. A flax-breaking machine has also been invented by a Mr. Plummer, the whole process being much too long for your Standard.

By the operation of scutching the flax is freed from all woody particles and is ready for the flax mill, where it is converted into linen yarn, being divided in lengths of from 26 30 to 36 inches. Heckling by machinery is generally done in large mills, the elaborate machinery or heckling machines sorting, spreading, drawing roving and also the spinning machines must be passed over in this. The spinning-wheel of the cottage, so often depicted by artists, has been superseded by more elaborate machinery; and so long as the production of linen yarn was confined to the spinning-wheel, linen was a costly article.

Mr. Marshall, of Leeds and Salop states that the mills for spinning flax were first constructed at Darlington (England) sixty years ago.

The principal flax mills of England are in the West Riding of Yorkshire and its immediate vicinity, and in Lancashire, Dorset, Durham and Salop.

In Scotland Dundee is the chief seat of the trade, and in Ireland, Belfast.

The increase in the trade is so extensive that mills have doubled themselves in a few years.

Mr. Marshall, of Leeds and Salop, employs above 3,000 hands. One of the rooms of his factory is 396 feet long by 216 feet wide, equal to nearly two acres. It is five times larger than Westminster Hall and seven times larger than Exeter Hall, London.

If any of your numerous readers are desirous of becoming flax growers in this country, and also have the philanthropic spirit to carry such out in its entirety, and thus give work for thousands, both male and female, they would be deserving of the highest honours not only in this New World of ours but in that to come.

Yours,
Mr. Editor,

THE BRITISH HOSPITAL.

To the Editor of the Standard.

Dear Sir,

It is not my wish to stir up the dormant smells from the old mud through which the poor British Hospital has from time to time been dragged: but there is one point in the management of that, in many respects, excellent institution, that I think ought certainly to be made clearer to the general public and subscribers than it appears at present. I, for instance, happen to be a sufferer of several years standing, but am given to understand by my medical man, that an operation some what dangerous in itself, would cure me, or at any rate liberate me for several years from the dreadful pain that the slightest movement now gives me. This operation he tells me could be performed, and the details of treatment carried out, in the Hospital with far greater facility for himself, and (what for me is of considerable importance) with much greater chance of a successful issue, than if the same were attempted in my own house. Now, I am able and willing to pay what the Hospital is in the habit of asking for private patients, and more should it be necessary: but I wish to know if for this payment I am entitled to place my case in the hands of my own medical man in conjunction with those of the house officer of the Hospital? The surgical qualifications of my own medical attendant I choose, I think with reason, to rate very highly. I am not acquainted with the surgical attainments of the members of the Hospital Medical Board, nor do I for one moment doubt that they are very great, but I know that my own man is very capable; and in fact I have greater confidence in him (possibly from want of a larger aquaintance among the wielders of the scalpel) than I have in others, and would by no means undergo an operation of so serious a nature at the hands of a stranger, while (to my thinking at least) so able a man is at hand who knows me well. The principal objection to such an arrangement, I am told, is that the medical men attached to the Hospital might take it as a slight to their individual and collective reputations. If such be the case, does it not occur to you Mr Editor as it seems to me, that these gentlemen must be rather over-refined in their sensibilities?

We all know that there is a good deal (and up to a certain point a very healthy amount) of what is called 'etiquette' about all doctors, but should I be infringing this by the above request?

Perhaps I meet with an accident such as a broken leg and an injury to the eye. I go to the Hospital, believing that all that can be done for such a case will be done. The Surgeon sets the broken bone, but when it comes to the treatment of the eye, and I suggest that this be undertaken (perhaps a difficult piece of Ophthalmic Surgery) by a specialist, I really cannot see that any slight is cast upon the Hospital Surgeon who perhaps is simply a general practitioner, with no pretension to, or special experience of, eye cases.

My own case you will see is parallel, and I hope my request to be placed under the special care of a medical man of my own choice, always of course in conjunction with that of the resident House Officer, will not be considered unreasonable. The care and conjoint attendance of the House Officer I take for granted, and consider his services no less valuable, and frequently much more arduous than those of the visiting medical man.

If you or any reader can give me any information with regard to this question, or can induce the Hospital authorities to do so, it may be of material benefit to at least the case of.

Yours truly
A. Stone

B. Aires, Dec. 3rd, 1881

P.S.—To a stranger it is not always very easy to find the British Hospital from the direction given in the Standard. 'Between Calle Bolivar and Defensa' includes a distance of only about half the breadth of the city.

Another day without any gold sales cash; the only transaction being 20,000 at 25.05 for end of the month; the heat and not the price of gold was the talk of the brokers; several amounts of gold were taken to the Provincial Bank to exchange for paper money.

National Bank Shares very buoyant, opening at 115, closing at 116⅝ cash; the price for end of December touched 118, closing at 117½ buyers; there was some demand for shares at 117½ deliverable any day in January, sellers asked 118. It seems that some 3,500 shares were borrowed last month and thrown on the market; the owners have asked for the shares as they wish to be represented in the next general meeting of shareholders in January.

Discounts continue easy at 7 to 9 o/o both for paper and gold; a loan of half a million pats arranged to-day for 90 days at 7½ o/o; great reserve was insisted on by the borrower, but one of our bank managers was equal to the occasion.

Exchange rather flatter, business doing at 49⅝ on London, 5.28 on France, 5.29 on Antwerp; the premium on sovereigns rules at ½ o/o, Condors ½ o/o for up river saladeros.

The movement in house and land property is increasing; we are fast coming again to the time when every sale was an error; of late several properties have been resold at a profit before the escribano had time to make out the title deeds.

The traffic to Bahia Blanca has so increased that an additional steamer will soon be placed on the berth for that port at the same rates as the Villarino.

The news from Entre Rios is very good; there is every appearance of producing enough castor oil for our home consumption. Statisticians note that the prosperity and civilization of a country can be measured by the amount of sulphuric acid and castor oil consumed in it. Our sulphuric acid factory has by the negligence of the Government gone to Rio, our only hope rests on castor oil.

The extra Custom House duty on wine will certainly favour the native article, but Bieckert and the beer men intend to replace Claret by augmenting the quantity and quality of their ale; a species of Lager Ale is about to be introduced.

The Provincial Government and Bank continue the policy of retiring the metallic notes from circulation; the total issue is now but fifteen million pats, or say a reduction of nine millions within the last year. When the issue is reduced to ten millions the Bank will accept and pay them as gold, for which purpose gold will next month be imported from London; with this and the stock of coin now on hand, ample guarantee will be held for the stability of the issue.

The Pinkney steamer Douro will sail for Dunkirk on the 24th. She loads in the Parana.

Captain Kerr, of the Lucerne, was welcomed on 'Change. This fine steamer will sail on Monday for Havre, a full ship.

The Provincial Municipal Budget for 1882 was given round yesterday. We hold it for future remarks.

The Custom House receipts for the first week of this month were 378,559 pats.

The saladeristas are now beginning to buy heavily and prices for 'novillos' are stiffening. At the Corrales yesterday some 800 to 1000 head sold at 350, and 400 and 410 for very fat beasts.

Don Mateo Forrester has sent to Minister Uriburu the first sample of flax fibre produced in this country. It comes from a Chacra of 13 squares at Bernal, and there are 80 tons of it worth from £80 to £100 per ton in England. The profit on the 13 squares will be $60,000 m|c per square.

The sale of the Langdon property, near the Plaza Constitucion, is announced, buyer Great Southern Railway Company. The Company has also bought 50 yards frontage in Calle Brazil, and the whole will be thrown into a magnificent station, to meet the increasing traffic. Our railway friends of the Western line should take a lesson from this.

The sale of 1,000 salted hides, Rocca saladero, reported at 49 rls.

3,500 novillos from the Alzaga estancia sold at 330 m|c.

The Provincial Commission of the Continental Exhibition has been increased in number by the nomination of Messrs Duggan, P Goyena, Ambrosetti, and Shiodes.

Some land in the department of Rio Negro, B.O., will be offered for sale in a few days by Mr Wright, the well known auctioneer. Bids will be sent down by telegram. This will be the first auction of the kind in the R. Plate.

In spite of the Indians, there is another improvement on the tapis in the South, viz:—a regular line of diligences between Guamini, Bolivar, and Carhue. The Minister has offers already to run the coaches, but is going to call for tenders, to see if they will be improved on. This new means of regular communication will certainly give the Guamini lands a push in the right direction.

There was good news from Cordoba on Change. Minister Del Viso has returned there after his visit of inspection to the Andino Railway. His Excellency and party went within 30 kilometres of San Luis, and visited the Sampacho colony, powder factory, Mercedes, Fraga, &c. Dr Del Viso got a most enthusiastic reception all along the route and was greatly pleased with the progress of this railway.

The Republica states that a letter has been received from Don Thomas Newton, giving an account of the landing on his estancia near Bahia Blanca of fifty passengers of the Packet steamer Magallanes, which was supposed to have been lost; and that according to latest advices the ship had not suffered very serious injury, having only broken its screw. There is evidently an error in the name of the steamer; it must refer to the str. Patagonia, which at latest date was seen steaming South.

At the Plaza Once this morning the wool market was firmer than yesterday, and more buyers were in attendance. There was a heavy business done, almost all in good and fine wools, as buyers will not even look at inferior kinds, much less buy them. The arrivals were heavy, and the state of things in the "gaipones" was worse than ever; in fact if the Directors dont bestir themselves and find some way to secure temporarily further accommodation for unloading produce, there must inevitably be a dead-lock before the month is out. The railway traffic managers are utterly powerless in presence of the unprecedented squeeze which the improvision of the Board has brought on them.

The Provincial Chamber of Deputies have accepted all the modifications made by the Senate in the General Budget and those of the Provincial and Hypothecary Banks. This is important.

The petition presented yesterday to the National Senate by the mercantile body, respecting the objectionable features in the Custom Laws, was much spoken of to-day on Change. Taxes and duties are now-a-days heaped on so promiscuously and indiscriminately that many branches of trade will be seriously injured, if the process goes on much longer. The merchants, in their petition to the Senate, say:—"Our conviction is, that so far as regards on duties imported articles, all those things which we cannot produce in this country should be taxed as little as possible, and raw materials required for the progress of the country still less, or, if possible not at all; that home industries should be assisted by means of a 'compensating duty'; that articles required for luxury or vice should be the most heavily taxed, and that all our products should be exported free of any duty." Sound economists will endorse this petition. The Government, or rather 14 Governments of this country cost such an outrageous amount in excess of what the country requires in the way of Legislation, that the prospect of the terrible burden of import taxation being reduced is very slim and distant indeed; but of all the fallacious items of taxation ever invented an export tax is the most unsound and anomalous. Our whole Fiscal system is wrong to the roots, in every branch. The happy-go-lucky distribution of our taxation has kept the country back and will keep it back till some Argentine Peel or Gladstone comes to the front and gives us one based on at least an average respect for the primary principles of political economy.

Governor Rocha has issued a decree opening the new Registry of Titles office. All mortgages embargoes &c. on properties can be registered in this new office, which has one very refreshing peculiarity about it, viz—that there is nothing whatever to pay, except the price of the stamp!

It was said on Change that the Tierra del Fuego Expedition will start on Monday. Lieutenant Bove, the Commander, was paid 4,000 pats yesterday. It is to be hoped that some good many come out of this naval paseo. Some people say that finer estancias than those on the Rio Negro will be found there, and valuable mines also.

The National Government has called the attention of the Corrientes authorities to the enormous smuggling now going on in the Upper Uruguay. Brazilian yerba is smuggled across the river in tons and tons and sent down here as Misiones yerba, and the loss to the Treasury is severe, the duty on Brazilian yerba being high. The 'yerbales' of Misiones are all but ruined by the unfair competition.

Flax is now becoming an object of such interest in this country that the European prices for it are closely watched. Although a colleague reports a fall in the French markets, the London papers of Nov. 9th say:—

"The flax and yarn branches continue to show steady signs of improvement, not only as regards the demand, but also in the matter of prices, which are higher than they have been at any time this year, especially for the better kinds, stocks of which are anything but heavy. Tows, hemps, linens, threads, twines and ropes likewise sell more freely at firm rates. The felt branches show a falling off, and some of the mills are curtailing production, as stocks are on the increase. The hat and cap trades remain busy."

Wools look better in England; the following is the latest:—

"The market for wool has become livelier. The consumption is above the average, and spinners are well in for contracts. Prices are again firm all round, and there are encouraging indications generally. Clothing wools and noils in good request at a trifling rise in prices, with a better outlook. Of yarns, Botanies sell best; it is expected that the foreigners will be coming forward again before long, notwithstanding that they are forewarned of the firmness of rates. In the piece trade spring prospects are encouraging."

The Times of November 7th takes the following view of money matters, in New York, which are now watched with such keen interest by all the European money markets:—

"The weekly return of the New York Associated Banks issued this afternoon shows their position to be hardly so strong as it was a week ago. The net deposits have increased $320,000, while the specie and legal tenders have diminished about $100,000, so that the excess of the reserve above the minimum of 25 per cent. of the deposits required to be held has diminished. The excess is now $320,000, as compared with about $320,000 a week ago. Still, as compared with the returns a few weeks ago, the position thus indicated is fairly satisfactory, especially as the amount of the reserve is comparatively large, being over $15,000,000. The return is a further sign of the ease in the New York Money Market and of the improbability of further withdrawals of gold from Western Europe to the United States during the present season. It must not be assumed from this that money will become much more easy in Lombard-street than it is now, as other influences, and especially the rise in the Bank of France rate, are now affecting this market very seriously. But, apparently, we shall not be troubled by further American demands this season."

STATE OF IRELAND

Dublin, Nov. 8th

At a special meeting of the Home Rule League a manifesto was read:

Fellow Countrymen

We are on the eve of the centenary of the accomplishment of Irish freedom which was brought about by those glorious men who at Dungannon laid it down as an incontrovertible truth that 'No body of men on earth has a right to make laws for this kingdom but the King, Lords, and Commons of Ireland.' At such a moment the Irish Home Rule League would be false to its mission if it kept silent or failed to point the moral of the occasion. If the Irish people of to-day have not utterly lost the spirit which animated their fathers—if they share in any degree in the spirit which after two thousand years of thraldom has made the Greeks an independent people, and which is the one consolation of the Poles beneath the crushing weight of Russian despotism—they will not fail to make the year 1882 memorable in their annals for a determined and successful effort to reconstitute the fabric raised a hundred years ago by the public virtue of Grattan and the volunteers, and destroyed in 1800 by the bribes and bayonets of Pitt and Castlereagh. Never since the accursed union of 1800 has the need of a native Parliament for Ireland been so painfully apparent as it is at this moment.

The manifesto then refers to numerous matters, such as the deprivation of arms, the manner in which the police dispersed meetings considered to be disorderly, and so forth all of which were strongly condemned.

The Southern Land Commission commenced its sitting to-day in Limerick. The Assistant Commissioners forming the court are Messrs. R. Reeves, Q.C., chairman, Cornelius O'Keeffe, and Richard Rice. There was a large attendance of landed proprietors, farmers, and the public generally, and much interest appeared to be taken in the opening proceedings. The number of cases or claims for reduction of rent is little short of 200, and the chairman announced that the sitting in Limerick would occupy the next ten days. There was but one case gone into to-day—that in which a tenant held a small farm at Castleconnel at a yearly rent of 19l. odd, and claimed to have a fair rent fixed for the holding. Evidence was gone into and the case closed. The chairman stated that the court would examine the farm for themselves, and then give notice as to when they would fix the judicial rent for the holding. A number of cases, the court was informed, had been referred to arbitration, and the chairman said he hoped the Commissioners would hear a great deal more of such being done during their investigation, as it would be satisfactory. The tenant farmers in court appeared to be greatly pleased with the manner in which the court dealt with the cases coming before them to-day.

The first case in which, since the passing of the Land Act, an arrangement has been entered into between landlord and tenant out of Court, has occurred on the estate of Mr G.E. Brown, at one time the representative of Mayo in Parliament. Reductions of rent, varying from 3l. to 10s. per annum, were agreed upon, and leases granted for fifteen years. The farmers considered that by this means they secured reduction at much less expense than by having a judicial rent fixed. The originating notices in the Land Court were withdrawn.

To-day in Downpatrick the Subs Commission, consisting of Mr E. Green, Professor Baldwin, and Mr J M Ross, continued the hearing of applications to have a judicial rent fixed. There were several cases heard, In that of Samuel Beattie against W.R. Martin (there were a number of applications from this gentleman's estate), the tenant deposed that he made up the rent for the farm for twenty years. He became tenant in 1868, and made great improvements in the land. The land consisted of 14a. 1r. 19p. The rent was 16l. 9s., and the valuation was 13l. 16s. His father-in-law reclaimed three acres and three roods of it There was not a fence on it which was not made by witness and his father-in-law. They built all that is on it except a little portion of a house. The landlord about eighteen years ago gave as many old slates as covered a house. Witness was in bad health, and attributed it to hard work. This season he tried wheat on the farm, but it was not worth taking home. He had a little income from property to pay the rent. If it had not been for that income and a little dealing in cattle, he could not have paid the rent. The rent since 1861 was 16l. 19s., and the former rent was 9l. 18s.—David Beattie was next examined, and said he held 32 acres in Fonaghvivies. He paid 10s. an acre for one portion and 15s. for another, and it was not better land than that they were considering. He valued Mc. Scott's farm. He would say that the rent to the landlord for one portion should be 7s. and for the other 9s. He also valued his brother's farm, and he believed 10s. would be an extreme rent for it.—J. Morrison, a tenant on the property of Major Crawford, near these lands, deposed that he paid oe the average 13s. rent. These two farms would compare favourably with his own, especially Scott's. He believed a fair rent for Scott's farm would be for one portion 9s., or 8s. per acre, and the other part of it, a better quality of land, about 10s. or 11s. Some other cases were heard.

Referring to the death, already announced, of Archbishop McHale The Freeman's Journal says:—'A personal and honoured friend of more than one of the Popes, six of whom he had seen ascend the Chair of St. Peter, Dr McHale took part in the greatest ecclesiastical events of the century at home and abroad. The anointed colleague of O'Connell, the foe of Derby and of Russell and of Palmerston, the diary of this Prince of the Church is the history of Ireland for the greater part of the century. A leading Irishman of a long-past generation, who had retained his marvellous intellectual and physical vigour to the age of 90, passed peacefully out of life. The Archbishop of the West, as he was most often styled, Dr John McHale, expired during the evening, after a brief struggle, with no definite disease. Of late years his name had not been the familiar sound that it was to many during the stormy period of 1830-50, and his episcopal duties) had largely devolved upon his coadjutor, Dr McEvilly, Bishop of Galway. Dr McHale, however, never lost his quick interest in affairs, and to the close was an intense Irishman.'

At Knockaney, county Limerick, to-day the telegraph wires were cut, and the telegraph poles removed.

THE LEFROY TRIAL

The criminal trial which has occupied the attention of Lord Coleridge and the Maidstone jury for three days and half ended in the only way in which those who are capable of taking into the mind a general view of the evidence could have expected it to end. The incidents of the morning had been necessarily of a quiet and unexciting character, and it must have been a relief to many to exchange the calm judicial tones and the clear unimpassioned reasoning of Lord Coleridge for the necessarily less impartial style of oratory of the advocates on both sides. By arrangement the opening of the proceedings was for the first time postponed to 11 o'clock; and before that time the entire body of the court, including its curious passages and corridors, and indeed every nook and corner which could afford a chance of seeing or hearing what was going on, was densely packed. Numerous ladies, some coming from afar, others members of well-known families of the county, again occupied the triple rows of seats to the right and left of the bench, of which these seats are conventionally supposed to form part; the reporters' galleries, excepting the front row with its narrow ledges, necessary for the discharge of the shorthand writers' duties were crowded to the walls: the long pen forming the side of the equally crowded body of the court, with its floor gradually rising from the back of the dock, was also filled with spectators, including many faces that had certainly not been seen in the witness-box. Around the semi-circular table, filled as its confined space was with legal personages, mostly representing the prosecution and the defence, one familiar face was now missing. Sir Henry James has been heard to say that he has never yet been present at the solemn ceremony of passing sentence of death upon a convicted person: and even this trial, in which he had nevertheless, played so prominent a part, will not compel him to qualify that statement, for since the conclusion of his grave, earnest, and powerful address on Monday evening he had not made his appearance in court. One other token of the final day of a trial for murder that has caused great public excitement may here be noticed. It cannot have escaped the attention of those who have been present on similar occasions that, as the final stage draws near, a somewhat closer guard is kept upon the accused. So yesterday the stalwart prison warder with the fair beard descending on the breast, whose Herculean figure seated near the stairs in the corner of the dock has been so conspicuous an object in the eyes of occupants of the seats on the bench, had taken up his stand behind the chair, where Lefroy, after his customary advance to the bar and bow to the Court and the Jury, had taken his seat as before. Here he remained throughout the day, on each side of him being other officials in uniform.

Fortified with a pile of half sheets of foolscap paper containing apparently heads of evidence, and provided with one or two solid volumes of notes taken during the trial, which had evidently been carefully indexed, the Lord Chief Justice reviewed in turn all the cardinal points of the case. That much of his summary should possess little novelty for those who have sat through these proceedings was inevitable: but there were some points which were so handled as to give them an air of freshness.

Lord Coleridge concluded at thirty-five minutes past two with an impressive exhortation to the jury to deliberate honestly and fearlessly, with due regard to their duty both towards accused the and the public.

Ordinarily, when a pause is thus reached in the proceedings of a great public trial, a busy hum of conversation fills the interval; but on this occasion there was a remarkable absence of all the customary stir and movement. Lefroy, who had sat all day crosed-armed in his usual attitude, had been from the first visibly paler and more nervous than hitherto. From time to time he passed his hand to his face, exhibiting the singularly long fingers of what appears for his somewhat frail form to be an unusually powerful hand. The end as we have already said was not long delayed. At precisely a quarter to three the indefinable murmur which indicates the approach of a new stage in the proceedings made known to most persons—and above all, to the pallid prisoner at the bar—that the Jury were already returning, So rapid a decision was an unmistakably ominous token of unanimous belief in the guilt of the accused. The customary formalities were then fulfilled, and the verdict of 'Guilty' was returned amidist s le n silence. In response to the usual question whether he had anything to say why sentence of death should not be passed upon him, Lefroy appeared, as he stood in the front of the dock, to make some effort to speak; but if so it died away upon his lips, or at least was inaudible even to those who were in front of him at only a few yards distance. The Judge, having then put on the black cap, the prisoner, with his eyes for the first time turned towards the Bench, listened with some approach to his previous calmness. At the expression 'atrocious murder' he even folded his arms again somewhat defiantly, and so stood until the final words of the address were reached. A touch upon the shoulder from the stalwart warder behind him seemed to arouse him suddenly to a sense of the necessity for some final effort. Then it was that he turned his gaze to the right, and advancing one or two paces towards the jury, addressed to them, with a somewhat determined expression of countenance, the words, 'Some day, when to late, you will know that you have murdered me.' A moment later he had disappeared down the staircase of dock, and the business that had brought so many strangers too Maid stone was at an end.

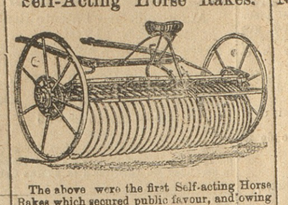
HOWARD'S CELEBRATED MACHINES

Howards' Self-Acting Horse Rakes.



The above were the first Self-acting Horse Rakes which secured public favour, and owing to their extraordinary success various attempts have been made to imitate them, but J. & F. HOWARD's simple brake principle—Patented—is so instantaneous in action, that all the contrivances introduced by others for effecting the same object are in comparison but complicated expedients.

OO, 18 teeth, 42 in. wrought wheels, 8½ feet wide, weight 7½ cwt.

OO, 28 teeth, 42in. wrought wheels, 8½ feet wide, weight 8½ cwt.

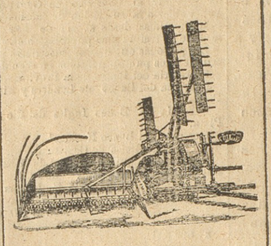
OOO, 28 teeth, 46in. wrought wheels, 8½ feet wide, weight 8½ cwt.

OOO, 22 teeth, 46 in wrought wheels, 10 feet wide, weight 8½ cwt.

OOOO, 28 teeth, 52 in. wrought wheels, 8½ feet wide, weight 8½ cwt.

OOOO, 22 teeth, 52in. wrought wheels, 10 feet wide, weight 6 cwt.

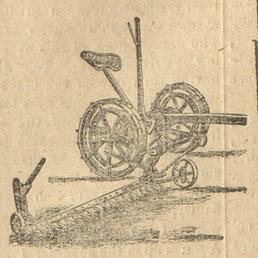
Howard's New Patent Simplex Mower.



J. & F. HOWARD's Simplex Mower is one of the lightest machines ever produced. It is from its construction remarkably strong, and has been found to be capable not only of cutting the heaviest crops, but of standing the roughest usage. J. & F. HOWARD's patented principle of open gearing is adopted. This gearing, among other advantages, is light in weight, of great strength, and not liable, as other gearing, to get clogged with the cut grass, there being no cogs to catch it, and no shield therefore is required.

With two Knives, Spring Seat, and Tool Box, containing all requisites for use in the field, weight 6 cwt.

Howard's New Patent Simplex Reaper.



J. & F. HOWARD's Simplex Reaper is in every way constructed to meet the demand for a light, but strong Reaper. It has a large travelling wheel, and having the fewest possible wearing parts, its value, especially where repairs are difficult to execute, can hardly be overstated. The experience of several harvests with large numbers of these Machines, both at home and abroad, and the distinguished place they have obtained in public trial fields, have fully demonstrated their superiority.

With two Knives, Seat and Tool Box, containing all requisites for use in the field, weight 1¼ cwt.

The above Machines kept in Stock by the Principal Hardware Merchants.

ROUGHING IT IN THE COLONIES.—There can be no doubt that a man has to put up with many little inconveniences when he settles in a new country; some of them arising from 'the necessity of things,' whilst others are the result of his own want of knowledge or foresight. However, if he can secure pure water and good bread he will manage to get along tolerably well. Thanks to the advance of chemical science, this last desideratum is not so difficult to obtain as in times past, for with a good supply of BORWICK'S BAKING POWDER, even Robinson Crusoe himself might have produced the whitest and most palatable of bread, to say nothing of cakes and pastry ad libitum, and would doubtless have ended by opening a pastry-cook's shop upon his desert island. NOTA BENE.—Don't forget to ask your storekeeper to put up a good supply of this valuable article with your groceries. In packets, 1d, and 2d,; boxes, 6d. and 1s. each. (a)

Dysentery, Cholera, Fever, Ague, Coughs, Colds, &c.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne

[(Ex Army Medical Staff)

IS THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. P. Wood stated that Dr. J Collis Browne was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne; that the story of the defendant, Freeman, being the inventor was deliberately untrue, which he regretted had been sworn to. Eminent hospital physicians of London stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was the discoverer of Chlorodyne; that they prescribe it largely, and mean no other than Dr. Browne's.—See Times, July 12th 1864.

The Public, therefore, are cautioned against using any other than

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.

REMEDIAL USES AND ACTION.

This invaluable remedy produces quiet, refreshing sleep, relieves pain, calms the system, restores the deranged functions, and stimulates healthy action of the secretions of the body, without creating any of those unpleasant results attending the use of opium. Old and young may take it at all hours and times when requisite. Thousands of persons testify to its marvellous good effects and wonderful cures, while medical men extol its virtues most extensively.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for coughs, consumption, bronchitis, asthma.

CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Medical Hall, Simla, Jan. 5th 1880. To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33, Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London "Dear Sir, we embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the wide-spread reputation this justly-esteemed medicine, Dr. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian house. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and, judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of DR. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE in DIARRHŒA and DYSENTERY, SPASMS, CRAMPS, NEURALGIA, the VOMITING of PREGNANCY, and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In CHOLERAIC DIARRHŒA, and ever in the more terrible forms of CHOLERA itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than COLLIS BROWNE'S, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than COLLIS BROWNE'S is a "deliberate breach of faith on the part of the chemist to prescriber and patient alike." We are, sir, faithfully yours, Symes & Co., Members of the Pharm. S ciety of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists."

Extract from the General Board of Health, London, as to its efficacy in Cholera—"We strongly are we convinced of the immense value of this remedy that we cannot too forcibly urge the necessity of adopting it in all cases."

CAUTION—None genuine without the words 'Dr J Collis Browne' on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.
